Angelo Noce

"Good morning, this is Mista Noce."

This announcement will always be a signature of Mr. Angelo Noce that students remember for years. He has worked in the Huntington Union Free School District for twenty-three years, first as Chairman of the Physical Education Department, then ultimately as Vice Principal of the school. Mr. Noce's career began when he graduated from City University of New York - Queens College in 1974 with a Bachelor of Arts degree in physical education and later received his Master of Arts degree in health education at Adelphi University in 1975, later receiving his administrative certification at New York University. Prior to his employment in the Huntington School District, Mr. Noce worked in New York City schools as a neighborhood worker, attendance and family assistant, student organization, mini-school and grade level advisor, coordinator of student affairs, teacher of physical education, swimming and health, dean of boys and acting assistant principal for physical and health education. Mr. Noce also held a number of coaching positions such as varsity baseball coach, boys' and girls' swimming and junior varsity track and field at Grover Cleveland High School. He also served as the head coach of the women's softball team at Fort Hamilton High School and was a student varsity assistant baseball coach at Queens College. At one time even working as a Funeral Home Director, he often shares his experiences with the Forensics Classes.

Mr. Noce is an only child from a big Italian family and has a beautiful family. His wife is a Teacher's Assistant in the Syosset School District. Described as a "great dad", his son is now a successful CPA after graduating from Hofstra, and his daughter is an elementary school teacher in Malverne School District. Mr. Noce takes great pride in his job at Huntington High School. He has a reputation of being extremely organized and knowledgeable about school policies. Mr. Noce treats everyone fairly and equally and is respected by both students and faculty alike. Tremendously supportive of Huntington athletics, he can often be seen in the stands cheering on a soccer game. Faculty members have described him as "a wonderful boss", and praise his kindness towards the staff. Mr. Noce can often be seen looking for his car keys or reciting quotes from the Honeymooners and Seinfeld. He is without a doubt a valued member of the Huntington School District, and his dedication to the students and staff makes him an important asset to this school. One thing is certain, should Mr. Noce choose to retire: students and faculty alike will miss the announcement, "Due to inclement weatha..."

"Mr. Noce has been part of Huntington High School community for many years. He is respected by colleagues, students and parents alike. We are very fortunate to have such a capable administrator on staff." -Dr. Leonardi

A NIGHT

ON THE TOWN

Huntington PROM Masquerade

Couples and friends posed for pictures as they arrived at the prom to have an amazing night. This year's prom was held at Larkfield Manor, where the natural scenery was amazing. The lights and music had everyone in a party mood and created a great atmosphere. This past year the theme was a Masquerade, which added a sense of mystery and adventure to the evening. It was a night full of laughter and excitement that the students will always look back on and remember.

1. Ta-roy Greene looks sharp in red at the 2010 spring prom.

2. Buddies Joe D'Esposito, David Lillenstein, John Jenne and David Rosenberg were dressed to impress and ready to party!

3. Phoebe Curran and Richie Gray were all smiles while mingling with their friends and waiting to go inside.

4. Among those getting into the spirit of the masquerade prom theme were Dylan Tuozzo, Jimmy Oliva, and Aliyah Cohen.

5. Mike O'Connor, Ally Kiley, Mikah Feldman-Stein, Holly Blakely and Ben Jensen had a pimped out ride to the prom.

"The lights were bright and the music was bumpin'." -Josh Zimmerman: Grade, 12

Various

"I really liked how prom had a masquerade theme; it really added to the atmosphere of the night." -Ben Kitzen: Grade, 12

Viewpoints

"Prom was a lot of fun. I loved getting dressed up and feeling like a star." -Rebecca Deegan: Grade, 12

6. Glee Grace had a blast dancing and parading around in her Masquerade mask.

Fashion Forward!

Sum It UP!

From year to year the styles and fashion trends change. What was once cool can now be considered a fashion faux-pas. Huntington High School students are always trying to keep up with the trends. This year we saw a lot of biker style boots, leggings, camo, fitted jeans, lace, and floral prints and overall a dulling of the colors we saw the last few years.

The academic programs at Huntington High School are truly inspiring to its students. They are rigorous, informative, interesting and exciting. There are a variety of different course levels, such as Honors and Advanced Placement, so ideally there is a class for everyone. Senior Danni Cerezo says, "My favorite class is AP Government, because our discussions are really interesting and I finally know about politics and current events that are going on in the world too." Another student that loves to learn is senior Jonah Kramer. "Honors Spanish with Senora Medina is extremely informative and so much fun. I have a blast every day in her class!" EJ Connell really enjoys his regents level Algebra II Trig class with Mrs. Quintilian and thinks she is a great teacher. Lastly, sophomore Carly Glowacky states, "English is definitely my favorite subject at Huntington. I love to write, and the teachers are so encouraging. They give great discussion topics and inspiration." Even though at times the workload seems challenging, the students at the high school enjoy the challenges they have to meet.

7. Hailey Borders and Ta-Roy Greene catch up on homework in the library during a free period.

8.

8. ESL teacher Ms. Lorenzana gives Carlos Orellane a hand in Science class.

9.

9. Seniors, Nicole Fariella, Dylan Ferber and Connor Davis worked hard on writing revisions during their journalism class.

profile

Calvin Bollar

Calvin Bollar is currently a senior at Huntington High School. Calvin is very involved with the athletics program. He is a member of both the varsity football and varsity lacrosse teams. Calvin hopes to attend CW Post next year and continue his athletic pursuits. Calvin says that 'being part of the school teams has been the most important part' of his years at Huntington High School.

Without a doubt the arts play a major role in the lives of many Huntington High School students. The arts provide an outlet for the creativity of our student body in ways that are unique in comparison to other classes. To be able to express oneself in a creative manner is fundamental to those wishing to pursue careers in art or solely need an outlet for their emotions

Sarah Feltman says "I love art so much that I don't just do art in school but I also take weekend classes at FIT in NYC." For David Lillienstein being part of the video program has provided him with a career path that he is very excited about. Alex Reinertsen is in the marching band and says "music is a big part of my life. It provides me with a great way to express my creativity. Band is a lot of fun."

Time For A Break!

Eat
Drink
Be Merry!

Seniors, Carrie Fante, Tara Narine & Michelle Byrne love being allowed to leave for lunch especially when the weather is nice!

Lunch is a time for students to get a break in the day. They can socialize and hang out with their friends. Lunch gives students time to relax and to take some time off from their school work and worries. If a student needs time to catch up on homework, they can get it done during their lunch period. Lunch is gives students time to eat and regain energy for the rest of the day.

Seniors get the priveledge to leave for lunch and go out with their friends. Going out for lunch gives seniors both responsibility and freedom. It is a great way to let the seniors feel older and different then the underclassmen. Most underclassmen look forward to this privilege. Having the opportunity to go out to lunch gives seniors the chance to get away from the school setting (if only for 42 minutes). Lunch is a time in the day that every student enjoys.

re•cre•a•tion 1. refreshment by means of some pastime. 2. a pastime, diversion, exercise, or other resource affording relaxation and enjoyment.

For me, lunchtime is...

"During lunch I make loud noises and on occasion I am obnoxious but it is fun. I love my friends - they are never bothered by my loud personality"

Michelle Waaland

"Taco Bell is the best place to go for lunch because you get an entire fiesta for a great price!"

David Lillienstein

"Senior privledges rule because I can leave for lunch and drive to school. My favorite place to go for lunch is Top Buns for burgers."

Nick Saputo

"I have lunch really early in the day, it is like having a second breakfast."

Shykeya Rains

Kenny Mcgrath and Chloe Drace enjoy having some time away from school to grab a quick bite to eat.

Over the past four years we have all made something different of our high school experience. Whether we have loved or hated high school (or some combination of the two), we have had the opportunity to explore our interests and take the first steps towards where we want to be for the rest of our lives.

Some people have found a favorite class, others a favorite club, for some it was a sport, and still others it was a job, a friend, or some other experience outside the classroom that had an impact on them. Now we all have the opportunity to carry our interest over to the next stage of our lives, wherever that may be. Though you may change what you want to do in the future, never forget to pursue your interests wholeheartedly. I know if we do we will accomplish amazing things. Congratulations to the Class of 2011!

Salutatorian

Michelle Byrne

Four years ago, we had no idea what to expect as we walked into high school for the first time. We did not know the friends we were going to make, the teachers we were going to get, or all the fun we would have. Now, confident seniors as opposed to scared little freshmen, we are facing all of the same feelings as we are preparing to begin our college experience. However, if college will be anything like high school, all of the trepidation is unnecessary. Yes, it is scary facing the future, but we will eventually find our way around and figure everything out. As freshmen, we could not picture ourselves knowing where we were going as we walked down the halls or driving to school. Yet, now that we are, we can barely remember what it was like being unable to imagine it. This is sure to happen to us on more than one occasion throughout our lives, as we look back and wonder where the time has gone and what happened to us in that time. Looking back over the last four years, the answer is clear that time flew while we were having fun and as we grew up into the people we are today. Congratulations Class of 2011 and thanks for making the few short years at Huntington High School memorable enough to last a lifetime.

Sr. Class President

Alexandra Kiley

I can't remember the first day of freshman year. Not at all. I think I was too busy scanning the halls, and too wide eyed to commit anything to memory. What I can remember was the night before. I was excited and nervous and I bet most of you were, too. Mostly, I was thinking about TV shows and movies with high school students in them. All the characters could fit a certain, specific archetype and I wondered if I would stay a nerd or become an artist or a popular kid or a jock (ok, maybe not a jock).

But I guess screenwriters don't remember much of high school, or maybe they just didn't go to Huntington, because assigning labels to us may actually be impossible. Members of the Class of 2011 have consistently surprised me through these four years. We are smart, athletic (ok, maybe not me), musical, artistic and involved. We didn't win Best Homecoming Float but in a few years what will be important isn't that we actually deserved to win and were totally ripped off. It's that we are a unique and incredible group of people who have created an identity all our own. We are a group with hidden talents who are surprisingly friendly and capable of so very much.

"Maybe these are my glory days, and I'm not even realizing it because they don't involve a ball." (Stephen Chbosky) High school was traumatizing. It was confusing. It was arduous. But, it was certainly wonderful. And I really hope everyone got as much out of it as I did. Congrats guys!

G.O. President

Alexa Giamarrino

I never thought this day would come when we say goodbye to our teachers and fellow classmates and enter the world of expanding dreams and accomplishments. Reflecting back on my years at Huntington High School, I realize that there are many people who I would like to thank for their constant encouragement. My family has always dedicated a great deal of time to support my achievements; from attending honor society inductions and award ceremonies to appearing at all of my dance shows and performances, their support will never diminish. There are also my teachers who have challenged my mind while guiding me through the various lessons of both the class curriculum and life. These teachers have furthered my understanding of diverse topics and expanded my creative thinking process. Lastly, I would like to thank the entire Class of 2011 who I have made a part of my family. As we stand with masses of memories and good times, we can all take the next step together. Our potential to succeed is at its maximum, and it is time we use it to seek new wonders of the world. Dreams can always come true if they are backed by ongoing dedication and hard work. So, as we set foot into the next portion of our lives, be sure to always reach for the stars and beyond because anything is possible.

In Loving Memory of MR. ROBERT POTTER

When word got around that beloved art teacher, Robert Potter had passed away on November 22nd, the entire community began mourning the loss of his cherished educator. Mr. Potter, who taught ceramics and sculpture, began working in Huntington in September 2006 after embarking on a major change in his career as an artist. After completing a bachelor of fine arts degree at Pratt Institute, he worked for 17 years for famed artist Peter Maxx. While working as a practicing sculptor and studying for a master's degree in art education at Adelphi University, Mr. Potter came to Huntington High School to observe art teacher Kristin Singer's class. "We knew immediately that he was an incredible artist and teacher," said Mrs. Singer.

His unexpected death was shocking and heartbreaking to the countless teachers and students alike whose lives had been touched during his four and a half years spent teaching at the high school. Unanimity is rare, but after Mr. Potter's death there was not one person in the school who was not struck with sadness.

True to his "INSPIREU" License Plate, Mr. Potter was a mentor and a guide to both his students and other people in the high school. For those who had him as a teacher (and even those who didn't take his classes) his door was always open. Many students that could be found in his room didn't even need help with their projects, but rather wished to spend time with Mr. Potter and have conversations that were always bound to be interesting. With his captivating personality, Mr. Potter was a friend to every student and colleague with whom he interacted.

Even for those not fortunate to have Mr. Potter as a teacher, he was a wonderful inspiration. There was never a complaint about him or a student who didn't look forward to going to his class. Students who were less than thrilled about being forced into an art class soon found it to be the best part of their day, and many went on to voluntarily take art classes in later grades. The Huntington students and faculty will always remember his Potterisms such as, "Don't quit before the miracle happens" and "Life is short. Time is fleeting. Hope is essential."

Mr. Potter was not only an unforgettable role model in his school, but a devoted father as well. Students of Mr. Potter can bear witness to the fact that he was always talking about his family. The amount of love and dedication that he held for his wife, Jan, and for his five-year-old daughter, Isabel, was overwhelmingly obvious.

Mr. Potter's death has signified the loss of a role model, a friend, and a wonderful human being in the Huntington Community. He will be forever missed by his students, colleagues, friends, family and all whose lives were lucky enough to be touched by his wonderful spirit. However, he lives on through his students and peers who are following his motto to "go out and change the world."

Dear Seniors,

It is always with great hope and some nostalgia that we come to the culmination of your years in the Huntington School District. At every level, and especially during the last four years at Huntington High School, you have been able to develop your talents and pursue your interests while being afforded a rigorous academic preparation. The teachers and I are proud of all your accomplishments and of your dedication and hard work.

You represent our society's hopes for a better future. Improvements can only be made if you commit to solving problems that previous generations did not have to face. Your age group is blessed with the enthusiasm, academic and technical knowledge that will facilitate the discovery of creative solutions to complex problems.

As you move on to higher academic pursuits, careers or service, our hopes and wishes for continued success will go with you. I am confident that you will remember with appreciation and fondness those adults at Huntington High School who were able to touch your lives and contribute to your growth. My wish for all of you is that you always "Determine to live life with flair and laughter." (Maya Angelou)

Fondly,

Carmela Leonardi, Ph.D.

The Year In Review - The Year In Review - The Year In Review -

The Year In Review: Unemployment The unemployment level in the U.S. was one of the most worrisome topics from coast to coast. Now we're leaving the year, and it still is. The official unemployment rate, as measured by the federal government's Department of Labor, remains stubbornly stuck close to the double-digit mark. Despite continuing efforts from Washington to stabilize the economy and convince businesses that better days are on the horizon, joblessness has averaged between 9.5 and 9.7 percent.

Chilean Miners: Mining is one of the pillars of Chile's economy; the country is the world's top producer of copper. Thus, when an August 5 cave-in at the San Jose gold and copper mine in Chile's northern Atacama Desert trapped 33 miners 2,300 feet underground, the disaster was a blow to the nation's identity. For 17 long days, no one knew the miners' fates. Rescuers drilled frantically here and there, sending down probes in hopes of finding the mine's emergency shelter. On August 22, one probe came back with a note tied to the end: "Estamos bien en el refugio, los 33" -- "We are OK in the refuge, the 33." On October 13, they emerged, one by one, looking perfectly healthy and wearing sunglasses donated by Oakley to protect their eyes from the glare. One miner, a former soccer star, bounced a soccer ball on his foot. All reunited with their families, who had kept vigil above ground.

The World Cup: Productivity nearly ground to a halt when those horns started buzzing, signaling the FIFA 2010 World Cup. As predicted, 2010 emerged as an incredible sports year. For 30 days in summer, men's soccer (aka football) became the world's sport. South Africa was hosting, and the African continent -- so often tied to colonization, poverty, and apartheid in headlines -- could show how far it had come, as well as what still needed to be done. The country cleaned up well: It built five stadiums for the event and fixed up another five for the 32 guest nations who converged on June 11.

The iPad & Kindle: After years of speculation and rumors about Apple's work on a tablet device, CEO Steve Jobs finally presented the "magical and revolutionary" iPad to the world. Early talk swirled about what the device would mean for traditional print media, the general consensus being that it might rescue an industry struggling to survive the recession and to stay relevant in the digital age. Within a day of Jobs's announcement, bloggers were predicting that it would kill the Kindle and other e-readers. The word spread that the iPad would do for books, magazines, and newspapers what iTunes had done for the music industry. Publishers evidently agreed, as they rushed to strike content deals and heralded the device as a game-changer.

The Jersey Shore: After taking the reality-show world by storm in 2009, the uber-tan, fist-pumping "Jersey Shore" housemates from Seaside Heights signed with MTV for a second season and continued their infiltration of the known universe. Snooki, J-Woww, Pauly D, the Situation, Sammi, Vinnie, and the others lurked in every corner, ringing the bell at the New York Stock Exchange, "Dancing With the Stars" and covering the Grammys. Bed Bugs: Like any good outbreak movie, this one starts in New York City. Imagine a montage of newscasters announcing that the Empire State Building, the United Nations, and Niketown have all been affected. Then heart-tugging shots of children as reporters announce that city schools are infested. Cut to a street with mattresses marked "Bedbugs. Do not take!" Reports roll in from other cities, describing bedbugs as a nationwide epidemic.

Charlie Sheen: The world watched as actor Charlie Sheen made his downward spiral. Charlie Sheen has a few things to say. A few special, gnarlington things to say. The hard-partying actor and unleashed a fury of rhetorical bullets from another dimension on the media, his co-workers, critics, Alcoholics Anonymous and pretty much anyone that doesn't spend time doing cocaine and/or having sex with him. Sheen was subsequently let go from his TV Show Two and a Half Men.

The Year In Review - The Year In Review - The Year In Review -

Tea Party Movement: It calls for smaller government. It wants to take America back. Its members oppose President Obama's health care legislation. It fears fascists and socialists and sees opponents in the Republican Party, the Democratic Party, and everywhere in between. It wants to end the Federal Reserve, to balance the budget, and to ensure that the U.S. is the leading nation in the world. It has powerful supporters, if not leaders, in Sarah Palin and Glenn Beck. The Royal Wedding. Prince William marries Kate Middleton: The wait is over: Prince William and Kate Middleton, having been a couple on and off for eight years, are finally married. The nuptials were watched by people around the world. Revolution in Egypt: Thousands of people began taking to the streets to protest poverty, rampant unemployment, government corruption and autocratic governance of President Hosni Mubarak, who has ruled the country for thirty years. These were the first protests on such a large scale to be seen in Egypt since the 1970s. The government responded by blocking Twitter, which was being used by organizers to coordinate protests. Blocking Twitter not only enraged Egyptian citizens; it also brought increased national attention to the uprising. Over the course of the next few days, Egypt proceeded to block Facebook while the much-hated riot police took to the streets, arresting and injuring hundreds with batons, tear gas water cannons. Protests occurred not only in Cairo, the capital, but also in Alexandria and Suez, two other major cities. Eventually the government was brought down by the people and President Mubarak stepped down. Middle East and North Africa Unrest: Throughout the Middle East and North Africa, civilian protests and revolts have erupted as people's frustrations with their conditions appear to have boiled over. At the end of 2010, 26 year old Tunisian fruit vendor Mohamed Bouazizi set himself on fire in protest at his treatment by local authorities. The ensuing public outrage eventually ousted a 23-year old dictatorship. But this event was not limited to just Tunisia. It seems that event was the final spark that unleashed popular uprisings and frustrations throughout the Middle East and North Africa. Gulf Oil Spill: Following the Deepwater Horizon oil rig explosion that killed 11 on April 20, the gushing crude took 86 days to cap. The live feed from the ocean floor became must-watch viewing, as massive online scrutiny monitored best (and not so best) efforts to kill the well and stop the worst spill in marine history. Besides igniting the issue of workplace safety, the disaster became a lightning rod for people's feelings about America's energy policies, big government, billionaire CEOs, environmental protection, and technological safety. Japan Earthquake & Tsunami: Japan was hit by one of the largest earthquakes ever recorded on March 11. The magnitude-9.0 quake spawned a deadly tsunami that slammed into the small island nation, leaving a huge swath of devastation in its wake. Thousands of people are dead and many more are still missing or injured; almost half a million people are homeless. Health Care Bill: Before President Obama even took office, one of his main promises involved remaking health care in America, giving those without medical insurance the ability to get it at affordable rates, and creating a program that would ensure coverage across the nation. After a bruising and contentious fight that invigorated supporters of the overhaul and enraged detractors, Congress finally passed a measure. Before it did, though, the health care drama turned into one of the most divisive political issues of the modern era. The lengthy bill was hailed as a victory for those without insurance and as government intrusion by opponents. On the Big Screen: Black Swan, The Kings Speech, The Social Network, Toy Story 3, The Fighter. On The Radio: Lady Gaga, Justin Bieber, Ke$ha, Bruno Mars, Katy Perry, On TV: The Office, Glee, The Jersey Shore, Skins, Gossip Girl.

Dear Class of 2011,

Congratulations, we have survived the past 13 years together! I remember walking into Huntington High School as a Freshman, terrified and not knowing what the future held in store for me. Now walking out as a Senior, I feel confident in myself and my fellow classmates. Thanks for sticking it out with me. Now that we have finally gotten through High School, let's go and achieve greatness. I know you will all succeed in everything you do. To quote the beloved teacher, Mr. Potter, "Life is short, hope is fleeting, time is essential." So thanks for everything you've all taught me through the years. Good luck. It's been real.

Sincerely,

Benjamin J. Kitzen,
